

Childhood

Knowledge	Important people and jobs	Vocabulary
People change as they grow older and enter different stages of life. There are six main stages, these include: baby, toddler, child, teenager, adult and elderly. The way people use land now is very different to the 1950's. We have more cars now so require more roads and more houses have driveways to park their car. An artefact is an object from the past. Artefacts can tell us about how people lived. Everyday objects such as baby bottles, clothing, toys and books can tell us about childhood in the past.	Family This is a group of people including one or more parents and their children living together as one unit. People in your family include mum, dad, grandparents, siblings, aunties, uncles and cousins.  Doctors Doctors are people who are trained to treat people who are ill. They can also check to see if babies are the correct weight and height and check that children are growing properly. This is important as it helps make sure all babies and children are healthy.
